G-W Homecoming: Fall, Football, Friends

FALL COMES TO CAMPUS

Saturday, Oct. 23, is your day, alumni. Homecoming, 1971. With that special blend of fall and football and friends. Remember? And you CAN come home again. Homecoming Saturday has a full day's activities planned for you, all on the ever-changing, ever-changing campus you've just learned by habit.

Come early. From about 9 a.m. until noon, you and your family can tour the campus and all its facilities. Interesting exhibits detailing the scope of academic life will be displayed in several campus buildings. They'll be moved by students and faculty. You can tour at your own pace. Register first in the Charles I. Dover Campus Center and you'll receive a map of the exhibit areas.

At noon, alumni and friends will gather in the CHD dining hall for a barbecue luncheon, served cafeteria style. The cost will be $1 per person, payable at the door. Though you needn't buy tickets in advance, alumni should return the reservation coupon on this page to facilitate planning.

There'll be no luncheon speaker . . . we'll use the luncheon period to greet old friends and make new ones.

Two o'clock is kick-off time for the traditional Homecoming football game in Spangler Stadium. The Bulldogs' opponent will be Cameron-Newman College, a foe for the first time in history. Though they'll be underdogs, G-W's players will love that Homecoming spirit . . . and the competition's going to be keen. Half-time activities will include the festive crowning of the campus Homecoming queen.

Join with your classmates in a gala day at Gardner-Webb. Your reservation blank's below.

Banquet Salutes G-W's Founders

Gardner-Webb College will honor its founders in ceremonies on campus Friday, Oct. 22, the day before Homecoming.

The annual Founders Day banquet for invited guests will be held in the Best Physical Education Building that evening.

The program will include an annual dissemination of Gardner-Webb's recent "Decade of Advance," tracing the institution's growth to four-year status. Students, faculty and college friends will take part in the program, featuring talks, music and drinks.

Students will see the dissemination in "dress rehearsal" in assembly on Thursday beforehand.

Cash Awarded Honorary Degree

Gardner-Webb College was so confer an honorary doctor of humanities degree upon musician Johnny Cash in a solemn convocation service Sept. 28, beginning at 2 p.m.

Earlier that day—at 11 a.m.—Cash and his entire troupe of 18 was to present a concert in Spangle Stadium. An open invitation went out to general public, and a great crowd of listeners was expected to gather for both the concert and the convocation.

Cash—famous world-wide as an able and talented singer, musician and actor on radio, television, films and stage—was honored by the college for his work in another field. The honorary degree recognized his immense contributions in the area of alcoholic rehabilitation, penal reform and drug abuse.

"We feel that Johnny Cash has done as much as any other person in the country to help people in our prisons, those who are addicted to drugs and those with an alcohol problem," said Dr. E. Eugene Patten, college president. "Much of his work in these fields has gone unnoticed as he did not seek or receive publicity for his efforts. However, those who know him best attest to his outstanding humanitarian efforts in these three fields as well as his Christian witness to all who come in contact with him."

Conferring of the degree was recommended by the college president to the faculty educational policy committee and the tone and character committee of the college's board of trustees. Both groups voted without a single dissenting vote to confer the degree.

See next issue for more details.

Roberts Heads G-W Annual Fund

G-W's Annual Fund steering committee has appointed John Roberts of Greenville, S. C., as fund chairman for 1973-74. He will lead efforts to raise $25,000 for the fund, which serves as a living endowment for the college.

Roberts is currently serving his second term as president of the Gardner-Webb Alumni Association. A former trustee and still member at the college, he now is editor of The Baptist Courier, voice of the South Carolina State Baptist Convention. Earlier this year, he was awarded an honorary doctor's degree by Baptist College of Charleston, S. C.

Roberts asked that fellow alumni join him in the effort to meet the Annual Fund goal, and expressed appreciation for support and cooperation extended in the past. He noted that, more than ever, Gardner-Webb needs the continuing help of its friends and former students.

Foundation To Assist Christian Vocational Students

A dedicated group from Gardner-Webb and the community have formed "The Christian Service Foundation of Gardner-Webb College" to provide scholarship aid for capable, deserving students preparing for full-time Christian vocational service.

Several students already are benefiting from the new foundation's help.

Membership is open to persons and organizations interested in helping financially needy students through gifts, bequests, etc.

Scholarships from foundation funds are awarded by the college's financial aid committee. It is proposed that half of all annual gifts be allotted each year as scholarships, and that the other half be placed in an endowed scholarship fund.

The foundation has elected the following as its steering officers during its organizational period: Dr. Thurman Lewis, head of the Biblical Languages Department, chairman; the Rev. Charles (Bobby) Fossum, college minister, vice chairman; and Mrs. Carl Ivester, Methodist churchwoman of Lenoire, secretary-treasurer.

Fossum pointed out that many students preparing for Christian work careers face heavy financial burdens, and that the foundation is aimed at providing help when possible. Some ministerial students, particularly, are married and have families when they answer a call to service, Fossum said. They must provide for their families while they undertake four years' undergraduate work and three years' seminary training.

Recipients of foundation help must be full-time students preparing for Christian vocational work, who must maintain C-average grades, be of unquestionable moral character, take part in the college's field work programs such as internships and radio sweeps, etc. Priority will be given to students majoring in Biblical languages, church music, religion and religious education.

A recipient need not repay his scholarship, unless he should terminate his studies or Christian vocation, but he will be expected to become a member of the Foundation and encourage others to do the same.
